Dear Mr. Trezza:

I would like to thank you for introducing me to some of the products you use and sell at The Sharpening Shop. Your use of them in the repair of small equipment gave me the idea to use them in my personal vehicle. My mini-van would idle extremely high from time to time (mostly in the spring and fall) so I treated my fuel with Mechanic In A Bottle™. The problem stopped within a day. I was so pleased with how well it worked that I tried Ethanol Shield™ to maintain the quality of fuel in my personal vehicles. There has been about a 10% increase in fuel economy in my van.

The success I had with these products prompted me to start using the Ethanol Shield™ in our bulk storage gasoline tank at the City to stabilize the fuel. During the ice and snow storms this past February, we did not have any fuel related problems with our gas powered sand spreaders (which we usually do).

I have also started using Diesel Mechanic In A Bottle™ in our bulk diesel tank at the City. I have been told that in the DFW area as much as 5% biodiesel may be added to diesel legally without disclosing it. With temperatures in the teens and even in the single digits, we did not have any problems with our diesel trucks and equipment.

Thank you again for introducing me to these products.

Sincerely,

Asa E. Low, III
